

INHS Newsletter – March 2017

Dear INHS members,

Welcome to our March 2017 newsletter. There are a few exciting things to share with you this month.

The Journal of Hate Studies is preparing a special issue focusing on the theme "Interrogating the Place of Hate in the 2016 Presidential Campaign". This special issue of the Journal of Hate Studies interrogates the place of "hate" in the 2016 US Presidential campaign. It undertakes a comprehensive and comparative assessment, particularly attentive to past, present, and future dimensions of the politics of hate. It seeks contributions concerned with the use of race, class, gender, sexuality, religion, ability, and nationality to diminish, demonize, and dehumanize. It examines the historic connections, previous manifestations, and origins of the forms of hate deployed in the 2016 campaign, exploring the ways in which this election was new and the ways in which it build on historic hates. Moreover, it looks to the future, considering the implications of the election and the manner in which it will impact emerging expressions of hate. Finally, the Special Issue encourages submissions that consider strategies to fight hate during the 2016 campaign and in its aftermath. Possible essay topics should be in dialogue with these central themes and may include (but are not limited to):

- * A Stormfront campaign: Social media, online technologies, and hate
- * Rebranding hate for political purposes
- * Hate and private/public spaces: From university campuses to community centers
- * Social movements and hate in the aftermath of the election
- * White privilege and the fear of a brown nation
- * Campaigning against political correctness
- * Anti-immigrant sentiments and political activism
- * Fake news, conspiracy theories, and the paranoid style in politics
- * The role of gender and misogyny in the campaign trail
- * Rape culture, political violence, and the resurgence of hate
- * The demonization of different bodies-ableism and transphobia
- * White identity politics and the 2016 election
- * The role of the press-enablers or opposition?
- * Defining terror: religion, racial fear, and propaganda
- * Borders, walls, and the politics of surveillance

This Special Issue will be guest edited by Dr. C. Richard King (crking@wsu.edu) and Dr. David J. Leonard (djl@wsu.edu). Abstracts of 500 words, along with a brief bio and contact information, should be sent directly to the guest editors no later than March 2, 2017. Complete articles will be 5500-6500 words long and will be due by May 10, 2017. The Journal of Hate Studies is a peer-reviewed scholarly journal published by Gonzaga University's Institute for Hate Studies. JHS is committed to excellence and innovation in the scholarly study of hate and to providing a forum for discussing research-based practices to combat hate.

Further, the Canadian Institute for the Study of Antisemitism (CISA) has announced a new journal, called Antisemitism Studies, published by the Indiana University Press. A double blind peer-reviewed academic publication, issued twice a year, Antisemitism Studies provides the leading forum for scholarship on the millennial phenomenon of antisemitism, both its past and present manifestations. Multidisciplinary and international in scope, the journal will publish a variety of perspectives on, and interpretations of, the problem of antisemitism and its impact on society.
